LEADING WITH INNOVATION

For LCS Technologies' elite technical team, business as usual—isn't.

LCS' elite technical team takes a “holistic” approach to problem solving by addressing the business problem first and then looking at the technical solutions.

Ignoring Conventional Wisdom

“In some cases we need to set aside conventional best practices and start with a blank page to find the root of the problem,” explains Stéphane Côme', LCS cofounder.

“I remember a situation where a customer technical lead told me, ‘this goes against all the conventions, everything I've learned’. And it did. The solution I recommended defied conventional wisdom but it worked. It solved the problem and reduced the processing time ten-fold,” he adds.

For one state government agency, LCS wrote proprietary documentation software and a rules engine that generated documentation automatically reducing the amount of manual documentation by 40%. This solution also reduced developer headcount and the cost of a technical writer.

Beyond the initial cost savings and efficiencies, the software eliminated the need for continued manual updates of the documentation as the application was being developed and upgraded.
